Once again Mats Gronmark slowly moves through the fleamarket. This time in a cloud of dust. It just goes on. A tireless hunt. For tape-recorders, crooked guitars, molested child pianos and things like that. Any old junk can be useful for this kind of compulsive collector. And sounds can be made out of it.

A vivid/livid hunter like Mats doesn't just stop collecting. Not just because the ceiling hardly is visible due to too much gear.

Mats's work at the closed psychiatry ward works wonders both for financing musical projects as well as building up inspiration and also as a mental counterpoint to music.

The intense following of the Leksand hockey team (swedish second league) also eases Mats's heavy mental burdens. Meaningless it might seem, but this kind of pastime can wholly free you from responsibilities. And from hunting down old stuff all the time. The only sacrifices for hockey maniacs are idiotic joy and bottomless anger.

The 1978 Volvo station wagon was already parked outside of the Cobra studio and was eagerly eased of it's instrument content. Sound-man Christian Gabel just had to turn on the heating, turn on the board and roll on the disintegrating 2" tapes on to the Otari. Expectations were high since the last visit. The vision of different musicians and line-ups felt so good it was repeated. Mats solo, a trio, a quartet, organ, pedal steel, no steel, two steels. The possibilities were endless.

The ladies in the choir Sångglädje rolled up in their taxis and sung like nightingales sitting on strings. A coffee-party, study-visit and studio-session all into one.

Mats also sat down in front of the lap-top and cut and pasted a track for a vinyl single. If you play it backwards it plays forward and the other way around. You get it. The single is Flake/Dig.
